25 September 2007

EU criteria for 'sustainable' agrofuels (also known as 'biofuels') are set on a collision course with the EU's proposed 10 per cent mandatory target for agrofuel use, according to a new report published to coincide with today's European Parliament vote on the Thomsen Report on renewable energy

Agrofuels - Another Scramble for Africa?

Trusha Reddy

Institute for Security Studies, 20 September 2007

Just as we begin to come to terms with the colonially-sponsored corporate conquest of our oil resources, along comes a new wave of 'green' companies turning fertile African lands to Northern 'gold'.

The price of corn is social justice

John Burstein and Manuel Pérez Rocha

15 March 2007

The increased demand for ethanol production in the US has left millions of Mexicans facing higher corn prices. Policy reform is needed to protect Mexican farmers from the damaging impacts of highly industrialised and subsidised US agri-business, argue John Burstein and Manuel Pérez Rocha.
